Screen Time

The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends the limit for preschoolers and technology to 1-2 hours per day. This includes tv, streaming, games, and websites. While the children are in your care, make an effort to have hands-on, imaginative, active learning activities. Studies have shown a link to language delays, academic problems, obesity, and even sleep problems for children that spend too much time on the screen. It is more important as preschoolers while they are learning social interaction skills and motor skills.

Food Safety in the Kitchen

- An estimated 50-80% of illnesses such as Salmonella and E. Coli start in the home.
- Cross-contamination causes much of the illness in the kitchen. Cooking meat kills salmonella and E. coli, but if you prepared the meat on a cutting board and don't clean the cutting board and knife properly and then use the board to make a salad, the salad can become contaminated. Bacteria can also be spread through dirty surfaces and dirty hands.
- To prevent infections:
  - Clean cutting boards and knives after each use.
  - Cook food until well done, and refrigerate leftovers quickly.
  - Use antibacterial cleaners on kitchen surfaces.
  - Wash hands after handling food.

Handwashing

Help us teach your child the five easy steps for handwashing—wet, lather, scrub, rinse and dry. The key times to wash hands, is after using the bathroom, before eating, and coming in from playing outside. You can find ways to make it fun, like making up your own handwashing song or turning it into a game.

Kid's Activity

- Show children how plants “drink” water. Slice a stalk of celery up the center from the base almost to the leaves. Fill two drinking glasses two-thirds full with water. Add enough food coloring to each glass to make the color dark.
- Place each side of the split celery stalk into a glass making sure both ends of the celery are in the water. Let the celery stalk soak up the colored water overnight. Talk about what happened and why it is important to water plants.
